After reading the article in the Spectator today with regards to the above in schools, I would have to agree and want it discussed at your meetings with an open mind. The kids of today need to know what the police do, they need to know they are there for the good of all, rather than the one that is portrayed by a few some of them being on council.

Respect for the police may come back to kids, I truly hope and this may be the beginning of a better alliance with youth, the public and parents.

Lets make this a better city and community, maybe this is the place to begin.

Yours, Jodi
